

Ability Leadership Project - NC

Project Update

August 28, 2020

Presenters:

Corye Dunn, DRNC
Gerald Parrish, ADA
Jayke Hamill, CCL

Since we last met...

- Were preparing for a "mostly in-person" program with some students remote in later sessions.
- Then COVID happened.
- All remote pilot. This decision was finalized approximately May 1.

Going All Remote

- Shifted thinking about both how trainers interact with participants AND how participants interact with each other; also required curriculum changes
- Biggest concerns are building relationships and preventing disengagement.
- Delayed start of program.

Pilot Class 2020

- July onboarding
- Session A completed in August
- 12 students including 7 people with IDD and 5 who are family members and/or professionals in the IDD world; 30% people of color; geographic diversity; disability diversity both within IDD and across other types of disabilities

What is the ValueAble Leader Project?

Values are the ideas that are important to us. They help us make decisions. Values shape how we lead, who we lead, and what work we choose to lead.

The ValueAble Leader Project (VLP) is a tool that helps us think about our values, name what our most important values are, and learn how we use these values to make decisions.

Values

Imagination

Creatively thinking or expressing oneself through art, ideas, and solutions.

Friendship

Developing close, personal relationships with others.

Social Justice

Fairness, equality, and doing the "right" thing.

Storytelling

B BOLD	R RELEVANT	A ACCESSIBLE	V VALUES-DRIVEN	E EXPERIENCE-BASED
Inspires a vision and a “call to action.”	The “right” story for the topic, person, and situation.	Short, simple, and easy to understand.	Rooted in your personal values and beliefs.	Reflects your own identity and experience, but is also relatable.

Evaluation

- Custom evaluation tools both for pilot and for ongoing use.
- Layered approach
- “Baseline” Survey
- “End-of-Session” Survey
